BURNS OFFICES AND MEAT SHOP

Disastrous Blaze Destroyed Building in Gwynneville at Early Hour This Morning.

LOSS IS ESTIMATED AT $2,500

I. & C. Traction Office and Johnson Meat Market Were Located in Structure—Origin Unknown.

Possibly the most disastrous fire which has occurred in Gwynneville in recent years, destroyed the I. & C. traction station and the Joseph S. Johnson meat market there about one-thirty o'clock this morning. The loss has been variously estimated at from two thousand to twenty-five hundred dollars. The heaviest loser was Tad Evans, who owned the building, where the blaze took place. He valued the structure at eighteen hundred dollars, as he built it and a barn on the same lot only a short time ago at a total cost of twenty-six hundred dollars. His loss is covered by a thousand dollars insurance which he carried on the two buildings. Mr. Johnson's loss, partially covered by insurance, may reach five hundred dollars although he has no real estimate on the value of all of the stuff which was burned. The loss to the traction company will be very slight as only the supplies and a few fixtures of little value were destroyed by the flames. The origin of the fire is uncertain.

Mr. Johnson came home from Indianapolis last night on the last I. & C. car, which is due in Gwynneville at 12:31. He went to his meat market, opened up and lighted a gas jet so that he could see to get some meat for breakfast. It is probable that the lighted match thrown to the floor or the gas jet was the cause of the blaze. In relating the incident surrounding the blaze, Mr. Johnson failed to mention as to whether he turned out the gas jet when he left the building. He locked the door, went to the barn to get his rig and drove home which is a few miles distant.

Mr. Johnson was hardly in bed and asleep before he was awakened by the telephone bell. The message from the other end of the line was to the effect that the building in which his business and the I. & C. traction office were located was on fire. The communicant said that the blaze was well under way and that there was little hope of saving it. The facilities for fighting fire in Gwynneville are not very great and it was not very long before the whole structure was razed to the ground. There were no other buildings very close or it is probable that they, too, would have been burned. The fire had completely destroyed the structure before Mr. Johnson arrived. He is the I. & C. agent at Gwynneville.

All the fixtures in the meat market were completely destroyed, the total loss of which will probably reach a few hundred dollars. Mr. Johnson also lost several other valuable things, including a large stock of meat and a new Underwood typewriter, which he purchased just two weeks ago for one hundred dollars. He had some other material stored in the second story of the building which will be a complete loss.

The I. & C. loss will not aggregate a very great amount as not much of value was in the office. All of the stock of express and report forms were destroyed, which were not valued at a very great price. Robert Boyle, traveling auditor for the company, went to Gwynneville this afternoon to make arrangements for the I. & C. office to be installed in a building near the site of the old one.

Oliver Mock has accepted a position at the Whitehead cafe.

BOY IS TRAMPLED BY VICIOUS HORSE

Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. George is Painfully Hurt by Pet Colt.

INFLECTS BAD FLESH WOUNDS

Cecil, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. George of Richland township, is lying in a serious condition at his home as the result of injuries which he received Thursday when a young colt knocked him down and trampled him. Several bad flesh wounds were inflicted on the youth's face and body by the young horse's hoofs. The colt has never been considered vicious before and the boy had treated it as a pet. Thursday the horse suddenly turned on its youthful companion and knocked him to the ground. It is probable that the boy would have been fatally hurt had not assistance arrived when it did.

FIRST NEW MONEY ORDER IS RECEIVED

Thought to be Great Improvement Over Old Form as They Are Less Trouble.

COMES TO DAILY REPUBLICAN

The first new-styled money order to be received in the local postoffice was delivered to the Daily Republican today. The new orders are thought to be a decided improvement over the old ones as they are not only less trouble to the remitter and the payee, but also to the postoffice employee. Heretofore, it has always been necessary for the postoffice, where the order is made, to send what is known as advice to the office where the order is sent to. The new form does away with this. It is divided into three parts, two of which are torn off at the office when the order is cashed. One of the coupons is placed on file in the postoffice, while the other one goes into the auditor's department of the office at Washington. The postoffice here will receive a supply of the new forms in about three weeks.

Fred Woods of Arlington will have charge of the intermediate department of the Fountaintown school this year.

PROVES WHAT ADMIRERS SAID

Aleyfras, Driven by Harrie Jones Wins First Heat of Free-For-All Pace in 2:03½.

IS GIVEN SECOND IN SUMMARY

Paces Fastest Mile Which Has Been Made by Any Mare in the World This Season.

Harrie Jones, the local reinsman, added another laurel to his crown at the State fair in Indianapolis yesterday, when he won the first heat and was placed second in the final summary in the free-for-all pace with Aleyfras, the fast roan mare who broke the local half-mile track record at the Rush county fair this year by going the mile in 2:09 flat. She did not disappoint her numerous local admirers who always believed that the little pacer was fast although erratic, when she won the first heat of the race yesterday in the fast time of 2:03½, making the first quarter in the record breaking time of thirty seconds. She finished a close second in the second heat when Ross K won in 2:01½, the fastest mile made at the State fair this week in a regular race. It is estimated that the local mare went the second mile in about 2:02. Her performance yesterday reduced her former record several seconds and was the fastest mile which has been made by any mare in the world this season.

Local horsemen have always predicted that the little roan Michigan mare could pace fast and now the city is full of the "I told you so" class. She has often been very erratic in races and easily loses her head, which has always been given as the reason for her not winning more, but yesterday she proved to be the best stayer in the bunch as all of the horses were excited at the start of the heat, which she won, due to the fact that they made several failures in getting away. She was forced back to third position in the last heat, Major Mallow nosing her out under the wire.

Harrie Jones' stable of horses has been the most consistent winners at the State fair this week. He has been able to take more and better positions than any other one driver during the week. On Thursday of the week, he won second money with Lady Winwood in the 2:18 trot. The mare is owned by John Frazier, living west of the city. Mr. Jones won first money with Joe Lederer in the 2:35 pace in three straight heats on Wednesday and also took third position in the summary on the same day with Frankfort in the 2:13 pace. The first day of the fair, Gordon Prince, Jr. was entered in the pace, but was distanced in the second heat due to the fact that he frightened at a bolt of lightning. He was conceded a place in the money.

George A. Ryan, an authority on fast horses, who has been writing the State fair races for the Indianapolis Star this week, says of the pace yesterday, in which Aleyfras won second money:

The final race of the day, the free-for-all pace, furnished the first split heat race of the day, and furnished plenty of excitement from wire to wire. All of the horses acted badly in scoring for the first heat, but when the word was at last given the Rushville trainer, Harrie Jones, made a short cut for the pole with the formerly very erratic Michigan mare Aleyfras, and while Major Mallow tried his best could not head the mare home in 2:03½. This fast mile whetted the appetite of the crowd for what was to come. Ross K. was on his good behavior in the second heat, and rushing from the extreme

CIGAR INDUSTRY IS FLOURISHING

Six Factories, Employing Thirty-five Men Are Now in Existence in Rushville.

FARMERS BUY MOST OF THEM

It is Estimated That at Least Seventy-five People are Dependent on the Business.

Few people in Rushville there are, who fully realize the value of the cigar industry to the city. Cigar factories have sprung up here in the past few years with surprising rapidity and still they are all doing a thriving business. It has seemed with the addition of each new factory that it would result in the survival of the fittest, but that is not the case. They are all doing a big business and continue to grow fat off the smokers of the land. The cigar factories continue to turn out their product and local smokers continue to burn them up. There is only one answer to the seemingly unsolvable problem: many of them are sold out of the city and many Rushville and Rush county men smoke home-made cigars.

There is another phase of the question to be considered and that is the benefit which Rushville derives from the cigar industry. It alone keeps many citizens within the borders of the city, who spend their money here and, who, as a general rule are high priced labor. They spend the money which they make here, in Rushville. The local merchants derive the benefit from the cigar industry and they in turn should smoke home-made cigars and keep the money revolving in the same channel. It is the business man, the laboring man and the professional man who smokes the home-made cigar that is interested in Rushville. When such cigars as Demmer's Bond, Glaska's Special, Cuban Special, Fair Promise, Red and Coyne's cigars are to be had, there is no use in buying a foreign cigar.

There are six cigar factories in Rushville, each employing several makers, all of whom go to make up the population of Rushville and all of whom are citizens of Rushville, who make and spend their money here. The six factories are owned and operated by George Wingerter, Mort Conner, George P. Altmeyer, Demmer Brothers, Frank Glaska and M. E. Coyne, each factory making special brands of cigars which are sold on the local market. The six factories employ a total of thirty-five men, all of whom are residents of Rushville and who get their daily bread here.

The big majority of the thirty-five men who are engaged in making the things that furnish enjoyment to men, are married men. They support families, all of whom go to make up the population of Rushville. It has been estimated that at least seventy-five people are dependent on that one industry alone in Rushville. Rushville is far above the average in the cigar industry, as many cities in this section of the State do not even have one factory.

And since those seventy-five people live and are clothed and fed in Rushville, local business men are duty bound to smoke their cigars. A local cigar dealer, who probably sells more home-made cigars than any other business man in the city, is authority for the statement that most of the cigars made in Rushville are smoked by farmers and factory employees. He says that few business men smoke cigars which are made here, but rather prefer some foreign weed. He says that the farmers are probably the best buyers of local home-made cigars and that they spend more money to keep the industry at a flourishing state than any other class of men. The local dealer in particular says that he has many farmer customers, who buy the local cigars by the box, but that factory employees are also a close second in the purchasing of home-made smoke producers.

MAY SEE THE BALLOONS

Wind Possibly Will Bring Big Gas Bag This Way.

The balloons at the motor speedway in Indianapolis began their flights this afternoon and some of the big bags may be seen by Rushville and Rush county people. An effort will be made to break records for distance and time in the air and if the wind is from the west Rush county will no doubt be in the path.

FARMERS PREPARE TO SOW WHEAT

Fall Work Not Rushing on Account of Fear of Grasshoppers Eating Grain.

CORN CUTTING IS STARTED

A few farmers are sowing wheat in Rush county, but most of them are holding off because of the many grasshoppers in the county. The wheat acreage in the county will be large this year. Corn cutting is now on in the county and there will be much of it cut, because of the short crop of hay.

The price of spring chickens has dropped to ten cents per pound and the price of eggs has advanced to twenty cents per dozen. The price of wheat has dropped on the local market to ninety-four cents per bushel and that of corn to fifty-two cents per bushel.

APPEAR AT SAME TIME IN BIG ONES

Daily Republican Saturday Evening Song Feature "Up to the Minute" With Metropolitan Dailies.

JOHNNIE WAS A DRUMMER BOY

Simultaneously with the appearance of the late and popular song hit, "Let George Do It," in the New York World, will come the same song in the Daily Republican. The song feature will appear in next Saturday's paper. All of the songs used here are very new and are published at the same time that they are used in all of the big metropolitan dailies. All of the Saturday afternoon features are "up to the minute" and none of the songs are later than those which appear in the "big city" papers.

In today's edition of the Daily Republican is found "Johnnie Was a Drummer Boy," a new and up-to-date song as it is heard in one of the newest comic operas in New York City. The tune is sung by Emma Carus, who is starring in "Up and Down" who is starring in "Up and Down Broadway."

ARE STILL HAVING LABOR TROUBLES

Work of Paving Main Street is Halted to Great Extent by Lack of Laborers.

SEVERAL MEN QUIT YESTERDAY

But Whole Squad Was Back Ready For Work Early This Morning.

The work on the excavation and all of the other branches of the work in preparation for the paving of Main street with brick is moving very slowly, due to the fact that the Adams Brothers Construction company is unable to get men. They have had large squads of men at various times, but they have been too independent to be suited with conditions, with the result that they have left. The bunch of Italians which were expected to come a few days ago have never materialized and the work is being handicapped to a great extent on that account.

Yesterday afternoon a few of the men stopped work, saying that they were tired of labor. The company felt that they were up against it more than they had been yesterday evening, when their force of laborers was decreased to such a small number. But at the time for going to work this morning, the men who had quit at noon the day before, were all back ready to wield the shovel and the pick.

The company has made marvelous progress, considering the handicap under which they have been working. The excavation work has been completed down to the C. H. & D. railroad in Main street. Monday they expect to cross the railroad and begin tearing up the streets in the business section of the city. The curbing and gutter has been built down to Ninth street so that the brick can be laid down that far. The concrete floor which serves as a foundation for the brick streets has been completed down to Tenth street. The brick layer, when he works, is a busy man. The brick has been laid down to the Stewart property and the men were working there today. One man lays the brick and can easily keep a squad of twelve men, who supply him with brick, busy all the while; he will have a few minutes to spare occasionally.

Spectacular Aerial Contest Billed For Late This Afternoon Has Attracted Aeronauts From All Parts of the Country to the Hoosier Capital—A Long Journey Is Before the Successful Contestant.

Indianapolis, Sept. 17.—Everything is in readiness for the American championship balloons race which will start from the Indianapolis motor speedway late this afternoon. The first race will be for the American championship and nine balloons will start. Three of these balloons are from St. Louis and a delegation of over 100 St. Louis business men has arrived to root for their favorites.

The balloonists who will sail for the championship are: Louis Von Phul, pilot of "St. Louis," who won the Centennial race when he flew 500 miles from St. Louis; J. H. M. Wade of Cleveland, will pilot his "Buckeye"; Allan R. Hawley of New York will pilot a balloon with which he won the Lahn cup last year in a flight from St. Louis to Walton, W. Va., last fall; Clifford B. Harmon of New York will use the same balloon he piloted in the national championship race from the speedway in June, last year; A. T. Atherholt of New York will fly his balloon, the "New York"; Charles Walsh of Kingsland, N. Y., will pilot the "Hoosier," which was in the national race last year; William Assman of St. Louis will be pilot of "Miss Sophia," a new flyer that was made especially for the championship event; H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis is another candidate from whom the visitors from that city expect a good showing; the Indianapolis entry for championship honors is a new balloon owned by Carl G. Fisher, which he and George L. Bumbaugh will sail.

The five entries in the free-for-all, in which the prize will be a diamond-studded cup, are: H. W. Jacobs, Topeka, Kan., owner of the balloon "Topeka." He is president of the Western Aero club; John Berry, winner of the American championship last year, will again pilot his "University City"; Eugene Brown of Peoria, Dr. L. E. Custer of Dayton and Albert Holz of Cincinnati will be the other starters. The pilots are making preparations for long journeys and in the championship race they do not expect to land before late Sunday night or Monday.

A committee which was appointed by the president of the Commercial club to visit other cities and investigate the plan has made its report and the club adopted the report.

As a result of its investigation the committee recommends that "the city of Fort Wayne join with the other cities of the first and second class in Indiana in an effort to obtain the passage of an act from the legislature authorizing such cities to adopt the commission plan of government as formulated by law, if the majority of the qualified voters of such cities so desire."

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Sept. 17.—Mark up another Republican gained for the legislature. Miami and Howard county will elect a Republican joint senator this year. Alfred E. Zehring, nominated by Democrats, is in revolt against Tom Taggart, and the Taggart bosses and the special interests have denounced Zehring and are reading him out of the party. Zehring, in a statement given to the newspapers, declares for the maintenance of existing franchise laws, and asserts that the laws are in accord with Democratic principles of "let the people rule." Newspapers controlled by the Taggart bosses are abusing Zehring roundly. The Democratic county organization in Miami county will oppose Zehring at the polls. Zehring not only is against the Democratic state platform, but he is against John W. Kern or any Taggart man for United States senator. So all around, he has caused a terrific "mass."

Republicans are asking why Governor Marshall and his board of trustees propose to put off the selection of a new warden for the state's prison until after election day. Governor Marshall has hinted that the appointee will be a politician, and he has declared that the Reid policy of keeping the institution out of the political game must be adhered to strictly. Those who know the inside history of the last Democratic state convention assert that Ed Fogarty has the inside track for the wardenship. Fogarty, it has been said, was promised the job by Steve Fleming. In return for the pledge, Fogarty was to give Marshall half of St. Joseph county in the state convention, on the senatorial selection issue. Fogarty delivered. Will Fleming be able to make good with the wardenship? Marshall men have said the governor did not know Fleming was peddling the state house fruit up and down the state. But will Fogarty believe the governor was ignorant of the deal? And what will the people say to the selection of Fogarty or a man like him, to succeed the remarkable and able James D. Reid in the important post of prison warden?

It may be that Governor Marshall is holding off the announcement of the appointment for the reason that he fears the people's wrath. It is the general feeling that the governor has no good reason for putting off until December what might as well be done and done right in September. If the appointment is not to be a political one, why hold it off at all?

State Chairman E. M. Lee, in an interview following a state committee meeting, said:

"The Republican party has always been progressive. It never stands still. Any party that stands still is soon placed in the discard. The Republican party in Indiana cannot take any other course, this year or any other year, it must be progressive or its usefulness is at an end. The Republican party was born to remedy certain conditions which the two old parties, the Whig and the Democratic parties, failed to remedy. A new condition faced the nation and the Republican party met it and settled it.

"In 1896 another new condition arose, and the Republican party met it and settled it by establishing the gold standard. This year another new condition has arisen, and the Republican party is meeting it and will settle it right. That the Republican party is progressive is shown by the results of the primaries in Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas and Washington. It is shown by the present sentiment of the party in Indiana.

"In Maine the result of the election shows that the party is progressive. The leaders of the party in that state refused to keep up to the times and to keep step with the progress of the nation. In that state, therefore, the party organization stood still, because the leaders refused to accept or adopt the policy of progressiveness. The result was that the people put the party in the discard. But it will rise again and go ahead on progressive lines.

"When I say the Indiana campaign will be a progressive campaign I do not mean that it will be offensive to anyone or that it will be a rampant insurgent campaign. It will be purely a Republican campaign, based on the Republicanism of William Howard Taft, Theodore Roosevelt and Senator Albert J. Beveridge. True Republicanism means progressiveness. We must keep up with changes in conditions. We must recognize the fact that there are constant changes in our economic, business, commercial, financial and national life, and the Republican party must not lose sight of this fact, but must keep up to date on all of these things.

"Along these progressive lines the Indiana Republican campaign will be waged this year, and I am confident that the masses of the people are in full accord with this policy. But it will not be an offensive campaign in any sense of the word. There will be charity for all and malice toward none."

There is a movement on foot to remove the naval war college from the training station at Newport to either Washington or Annapolis.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen.

PULL; DON'T JERK.

"If there is one business on earth that a quitter should leave alone it is advertising," says John Wanamaker. "To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick to it like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. Advertising doesn't jerk, it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It is likened to a team of horses pulling a heavy load. A thousand spasmodic jerks will not budge the load, while half the power exerted in a steady effort will start and keep it moving."

Short Words and Few of Them.

"Answering the Indianapolis Star we would suggest that Indiana can gain two or three Republican congressmen to make up for the loss in Maine," if such papers as the Star, professing Republicanism, will be fair enough to acknowledge Republican policies."—Lafayette Journal.

"The Star neither expects to acknowledge nor to support Republican policies that are wrong, but only such as are right. It neither expects nor pretends to approve those actions of the party or of its leaders that are wrong, but only those that are right."—Indianapolis Star.

That certain policies are right or wrong may be a matter of opinion or prejudice. The Democrats have claimed that Republican policies are wrong, and the Republicans have held that Democratic policies are wrong and the Prohibitionists and Socialists swear by all that is holy that both the Republican and Democratic policies are radically wrong. So there you are. What the Lafayette Journal really meant to say was that if the Star really professes Republicanism, it should take the insurgent off its shoulder, quit "throwing it into" the regular administration Republicans, and get down to work supporting such Republican policies as are really the issue of this campaign.

President Taft.

President Taft has now been in office just a year and a half. An estimate of his administration is not out of the way. First, it must be noted that his nomination was made largely upon the recommendation and because of the energetic support of Theodore Roosevelt, then President. He was taken by the people almost entirely at Mr. Roosevelt's estimate. He had never demonstrated the possession of any special executive force or capacity. Almost immediately after his induction to office he was beset with, no doubt to him, unexpected, difficulties. They were at least quite unusual. Certain subordinates who owed their places to the influence of Mr. Roosevelt assumed duties and arrogated to themselves powers largely in excess of those conferred upon them by law, justifying their conduct upon the ground that they were the special champions of the people and were carrying out policies inaugurated by Mr. Roosevelt, a claim that may or may not have been well founded. Our own William Dudley Foulke, a mugwump Republican, who generally votes the Democratic ticket, journeyed all the way to Washington to tell the President what to do and how to do it.

The President chose to require of his subordinates obedience to the law, same as other people, and upon refusal requested their resignations, and even refused to substitute the judgment of Dudley for his own. For which apparently reasonable and justifiable acts, he was roundly denounced by a horde of the ex-President's self-appointed champions and charged with having been controlled by the "interests" and turned his back upon Roosevelt and his friends and abandoned his policies. Congress convened, he submitted recommendations upon the tariff and other questions in harmony with our platform pledges. He very naturally had to look to Republican Senators and members of Congress to get together and shape legislation. They divided upon schedules. A few refused to go into caucus and bind themselves by the action of the majority. Chaos reigned. But largely through his influence and because of his persistent efforts a tariff law was enacted, not, it is true, embodying all he had recommended, but mainly so. It seemed at that time the best attainable. He signed it and was immediately denounced by the metropolitan newspapers and periodicals, which, in their own selfish interest, had demanded free wood pulp and were disappointed, and was subjected to venomous attacks by Democratic leaders, and disgruntled Republican members and Senators, to all of which clamor he apparently gave little heed, but kept pegging away at Congress for other and further promised legislation, with the result that about all the post-election party pledges and platform promises have been fairly redeemed. Thus, in this brief time, he has obtained more legislation in redemption of party pledges than any predecessor ever did in a like period.

Through his cabinet officers he has energetically enforced the laws against combinations, trusts and railroad corporations by going into the courts and prosecuting alleged violators. He has efficiently enforced all the laws of Congress and the rules adopted thereunder for the preservation and conservation of our natural resources. In the efficient discharge of these multifarious and responsible duties he has not been sensational or spectacular; has not proclaimed from the housetops his purposes, intentions, hopes and fears, nor his championship of the rights of the people, nor heralded his own accomplishments. But like the level-headed, practical leader he is, he stuck to his job and "sawed wood." Measured by things done, his administration thus far is a pronounced, decisive and gratifying success. The masses of the people are beginning to appreciate him and his method of doing their business and to approve both, and as a result his popularity is growing from day to day.

Automobile Owning.

In the discussion of the economic aspects of the automobile industry, Marion has a peculiar interest because here the industry gives employment to many wage earners. Some wisdom and much foolishness have been uttered to the extravagance of automobile owning. The Albany News Union says some very sensible things on this subject as follows:

"Thackeray, in one of his 'Roundabout Papers,' refers to time as the silver-winged charioteer. Time travels according to fashion. In his verdancy he was content to lazily roll along in a chariot, but in the mad rush of this feverish age he is heedlessly speeding over the highways of life in a limousine. We read the other day in some staggering statistics of the automobile trade that if the motor vehicles turned out of the factories during the past twelve months were placed end to end in a line, they would extend from the north polar cap to the foothills of the Andes.

"Automobiles are becoming about as common as wheelbarrows and push-carts. While they may never become quite as cheap, they are creating a necessity among the poor who will motor at any cost. A bank in one of the Hudson river towns refuses to loan money to a customer whom its board of discount suspects of wanting to buy an automobile. When a dealer offers acceptable security for a loan has a bank any business to inquire what use he intends to make of the money? A proud-spirited customer of the bank in question so resented the impertinence of the official who reflected by imputation on his extravagant habits of living that he withdrew his balance and transferred his account to another bank.

"As if the only extravagant folly a man can commit with borrowed funds is to buy a honking machine! As if the possession of a motor were damning evidence that the owner is racing on a precipitous down-grade to blue ruin! When a man is broken down in health, is it a waste of money to take a vacation? Because cork legs are costly should a one-legged man pin up the leg of his trousers and hop along on one foot? Is it a sign of wasteful excess for a bald man, with a head as hairless as a Bermuda onion, to buy a wig? Is there logic or consistency in the theory that buying an automobile commits one to poverty or crime? We know that the contrary is true; that if the poor man indulges in an occasional luxury, in order to afford it he must pare his cheese a little closer to the rind. He may be obliged to work a little harder, wear cheaper clothes, and eat simpler food. 'Give em the luxuries of life,' said an easy-going man about town, 'the necessities I can do without.'

"Whether the poor man can afford an automobile is a problem he must work out himself. Banks with money to loan are not expected to aid him in the solution; and when they become inquisitorial and refuse to lend him the money on good collateral, he has a right to feel offended but need not be discouraged, for he may negotiate the loan somewhere else."

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudet management will offer a good reproduction at their theater tonight in the film, "Her Romance." It tells a pathetic story of the life of a young woman, who is turned out from under her own roof by her father, because she saw fit to exercise her power in choosing a husband. The husband dies and she is compelled to earn bread for herself and her young son. One day, while her boy is on the streets, he is run down by an automobile and seriously injured. The startling climax to the story makes it one of much merit. "I'm Awfully Glad I Met You," is the title of the illustrated song.

The Star Grand offers a Vitagraph subject tonight entitled, "The Three Cherry Pits," or "The Veteran's Honor." It is without question one of the most dramatic stories in French history and one of the grandest portrayals ever made in motion pictures. Miss Marie Williams will sing the illustrated song.

The Airdome offers two subjects tonight. The first is a realistic drama entitled "The Castaway's Return," a story that will touch all hearts. The second subject is a comedy based on a novel idea exorcisingly funny, entitled, "How Jack Won His Bride." Earl Robertson will sing the illustrated song.

CHAPTER XV. THE KING.

THE vintner slowly lowered the pistol till it touched the table. Then he released it.

"That is better, your majesty."

"Why do you call me that?"

"Your face was familiar, but I failed at first to place it rightly. It was only after you had duped me into going after the veiled lady that I had any real suspicion. You are Frederick Leopold of Jugendheit."

"I shall not deny it further," proudly. "And take care how you speak to me, since I admit my identity."

"This is Ehrenstein. Here I shall talk to you as I please."

The king reddened, and his hand closed again over the pistol.

"I have saved your majesty twice from death. You force me to recall it to your mind."

The king had the grace to lower his eyes.

"The first time was at Bonn. Don't you recollect the day when an American took you out of the Rhine, an American who did not trouble himself to come around and ask for your thanks, who, in truth, did not learn till days after what an important person you were or were going to be?"

"For that moment, herr, I thank you."

"And for that in the garden below?"

"For that also. Now, why are you here?"

Carmichael went over to the table. He bent over it and with his face close to that of the king, "I demand to know what your intentions are toward that friendless goose girl."

"And what is that to you?" said the king angrily.

"It is this much: If you have acted toward her otherwise than honorably, well—"

"Go on. You interest me."

"Well, I promise to break every bone in your kingly body. In this room it is man to man. I recognize no king, only the physical being."

The king pushed aside the table, furious.

"You shall die for this insult!" said the king as quietly as his hard breathing would allow.

"I have heard that before. But how?" banteringly.

"I will waive my crown—man to man!"

"Sword sticks, sabers or hop poles? Come," savagely, "what do you mean by the goose girl?"

So intent on the struggle were they that neither heard the door open and close.

"Yes, my dear nephew, what do you mean by Gretchen?"

Carmichael released the king and with feline quickness stooped and secured the pistol which had fallen to the floor. Not sure of the new arrival's purpose, he backed to the wall. He knew the voice, and he recognized its owner.

"Put it in your pocket, Mr. Carmichael, and let us finish this discussion in English since there are many ears about the place."

"His royal highness?" murmured the king.

"Yes, sire! True to life!"

"A fine comedy," cried Herr Ludwig jovially, folding his arms over his deep chest, "a rollicking adventure! Well, nephew, you have not as yet answered either Mr. Carmichael's question or my own. What do you mean by Gretchen?"

"I love her," nobly. "And well for you, my uncle, that you come as you do. I would have married her. Wrong her? What was a crown to me, who till now have never won one save in speech? You have been the king."

"Bodies must have heads; kingdoms must have kings. I have made an experiment, and this is the result. I wanted you to grow up unfettered by power; I wanted you to mingle with peoples, here and there, so when you became their head physician you could ably minister to their political diseases. And all this fine ambition tumbles down before the wooden shoes of a pretty goose girl."

"Now, Mr. Carmichael, what is your interest in Gretchen?" asked the king tartly.

Carmichael trembled with joy. Here was an opening for a double shot. "My interest in her is better than yours, for I have not asked her to become a king's mistress."

His royal highness bit his lip. "Uncle!" cried the king, horrified at this revelation.

"Mr. Carmichael evidently has applied his ear to some keyhole," Herr Ludwig replied, recollecting well the day when he suggested to the beautiful young girl how easily and quickly she could secure the riches, the pretty things and the advantages she desired. It occurred in the tap room of the tavern the day he had the mysterious interview with the aged clockmaker. Yes, well did Herr Ludwig remember how he had told Gretchen that she could win the gowns, the carriages and the jewels her girl's heart craved solely through her beauty, "by the supreme right of her beauty alone."

"No, no, not through the keyhole!" retorted Carmichael. "The window was open. My clerk heard you plainly."

"Uncle, is this damnable thing true?"

"Yes. What would you? You were determined to make a fool of yourself. But rest easy. She is ignorant where this offer came from, and, moreover, she spurned it, as Mr. Carmichael's clerk will affirm. Oh, Gretchen is a fine little woman, and I would to God she was of your station!" And the mask fell from the regent's face, leaving it bitter and careworn. "Our presence is known in Dreiberg; it has been known for three days at least. And in coming up here I had another errand. Oh, I haven't forgotten it. In the street there are at least ten soldiers under the subchief of the police. Rather a curious conjunction."

The king turned white.

Carmichael ran to the rear window. He shrugged. "There's half a dozen in the garden too."

"Is there any way to the roofs?"

"None that would serve you."

"Mr. Carmichael," said the king, offering his hand, his handsome face kindly and without rancor, "I should be an ungrateful wretch if I did not ask your full pardon. I am indebted to you twice for my life, little as it amounts to. And in my kingdom you will always be welcome. Will you accept my hand as one man to another?"

"With happiness, your majesty. And I ask that you pardon my own hasty words."

"Thank you."

"He is only young," sighed Ludwig.

The king emptied the drawer, put the contents in his pocket, tied the strings and put it under his arm.

"What are you going to do?" asked the uncle, vaguely perturbed.

"I am going down to the soldiers. I am no longer a vintner; I am a king!"

And he said this in a manner truly royal.

"Gott!" burst from the prince regent.

"This boy has marrow in his bones, after all. But the incarceration will not be long. There are 10,000 troops on the other side of the passes."

"Ten thousand? Well, they shall stay there," said the king determinedly. "I shall not begin my reign with war. I will tell the duke the truth. He will not dare go far."

"He will be a good politician, too," said Ludwig, with a smile of approval at Carmichael. "No, boy, there will be no war. And yet I was prepared for it, nor was I wrong in doing so. Already, but for Herbeck, there would be plenty of fighting in the passes. Ach! Could you but see the princess!"

"I have seen her," replied the king. "Heaven would have been kinder had

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

I seen her months ago."

"Say to his serene highness, then, that you are willing to marry her."

"I'm afraid you do not understand, uncle," the king replied sadly. "I have the supreme happiness to love and to be loved. Of that nothing can rob me. And for some time to come, uncle mine, I shall treasure that happiness."

"And the little Gretchen?"

"Yes, yes! I have been a scoundrel." And the king's eyes grew moist. "You are happy, Mr. Carmichael. You have no crown to weigh against your love."

And from that moment Carmichael's heart warmed toward the young man, whose sorrow was greater than his own, for the king was giving up the woman who loved him, while Carmichael was only giving up the woman he loved, which is a distinction.

"Come, uncle," said the young king; "let us see what is going on downstairs."

Carmichael followed them down.

"There they are, men!" cried the subchief. "You are under arrest!"

"I am the king of Jugendheit," calmly announced Frederick Leopold. "Will you subject me to public arrest?"

"And I," said the uncle, "am Ludwig, prince regent."

The subchief laughed uproariously. The king of Jugendheit and the prince regent! This was a good joke indeed!

"Your majesty and your royal highness," said the subchief, his eyes twinkling, "will do me the honor of accompanying me to the Steinschloss. You are accused of being military spies from Jugendheit."

"May I retain this bundle?" inquired the king.

"Yes. I know what is in it. Forward, march!"

Carmichael made as though to protest, but Prince Ludwig signed for him to be silent.

An hour later Gretchen appeared before Frau Bauer. Gretchen had gone home immediately after the termination of the fight in the garden.

"He was not hurt, frau?" she asked timidly.

"Oh, no! The two of them gave themselves up readily. They are snug in the Steinschloss by this time."

"The Steinschloss!" Gretchen blanched. "Holy mother, what has happened?"

"Why, your vintner and Herr Ludwig were arrested an hour ago, accused of being spies from Jugendheit."

She groped blindly for the door.

"Where are you going, Gretchen?"

"To her highness! She will save him!"

Her highness was dreaming. She had fallen into this habit of late. A maid of honor announced that the young woman Gretchen sought her presence.

"Admit her. She will be a tonic," said Hildegard.

Gretchen appeared, red eyed and disheveled. Instantly she flung herself at the feet of the princess.

"Why, Gretchen?"

"They will not let me see him, highness!" Gretchen choked.

"What has happened, child?"

"They have arrested him as a spy from Jugendheit, and he is innocent. Save him, highness!"

VOTERS PUT MARK UPON THEIR FOES

Democrats Who Tried to Trick Labor Men.

BILL TO ROB ELECTORATE

Strong Effort Made at 1909 Session of Legislature to Enact Law to Keep Industrial Vote From Polls—Some Men Who Were Caught in Act—One Present State Candidate Had Part In Shameful Deal.

Labor men in Indiana have put their mark on the Democrats who tried to force through an unfair registration and election law at the 1909 session of the Indiana legislature. On the list of men who became involved in the effort to pass Senate bill No. 4, which was No. 141 in the house, are the following well-known Democratic aspirants for public offices:

Tom Brolley, candidate for state statistician on the Democratic ticket.

Senator F. M. Kistler, candidate for re-election to the state senate.

Senator Evan Stotsenberg, candidate for re-election to the senate.

John B. Faulkner, candidate for re-election to the house, and aspirant for speaker.

Sam. Benz, former senator, and now a candidate for representative.

Labor men point out the unfair features of the registration act drawn and urged by the Democrats, but they especially call attention to the injustice proposed to be worked on industrial voters by the bill as it related to elections.

The workingman knows what difficulties already are in his way when he goes to the polls. He must vote on his way to work, or he must wait until late evening. His time is limited. If he is delayed in the morning, he must give up voting and proceed to work. If he is delayed in the evening, he may lose his vote altogether. The workingman does not desire to give up his vote. So he strongly opposes measures which tend to complicate voting methods unduly, or hamper the elector in exercising his rights.

The proposed Democratic election law put in the hands of challengers the ability to delay voting at any polling place to such an extent as to affect the result materially.

Given such a law as that proposed by the Democrats with Governor Marshall's sanction, Democratic challengers would have in their hands a weapon with which to destroy the rights of thousands of citizens in Indiana.

The bill provided for an affidavit which would require from five to ten minutes to fill out. Challengers could force industrial voters to fill out affidavits in such numbers as to block hundreds of waiting voters in any one precinct. The bill, if passed, would have given the challengers power to shut out many voters entirely.

The game under such a law would be to hustle out the vote of the challengers' party with all speed, and begin the wholesale challenging of industrial voters in the late hours.

The measure was obviously ridiculous because of its plain injustice and evil design. But the industrial voters remember well who urged the measure, and the record tells the names of the Democrats who were back of the disfranchisement scheme.

The Democratic publicity bureau has referred with someunction to the "Marshall registration bill." Labor men have asked that the text of the iniquitous bill be printed. But the publicity bureau of Democrats has not yet published the wording of the anti-labor measure.

Republican editors are preparing for district meetings all over the state, and for a "roundup" meeting to be held in Indianapolis October 4.

Fifth district editors held a meeting at Terre Haute last Friday. Frank Tilley, Republican candidate for congress spoke to the Republican newspaper men. Reports were made by every county in the Fifth. Another meeting is to be held soon.

Republican editors in the Fourth district will meet at North Vernon September 17. Three Republican conventions are on at North Vernon that day.

Not more than eight or ten legislative candidates remain to be nominated by the Republicans. The Democrats have yet to choose about double that number. Where it can be done the Democrats are leaving the choice to county chairmen.

Democrats are abusing Will V. Rooker because he says the Democratic ticket in Indiana is doomed to defeat by 40,000 or 80,000 plurality.

Senator Beveridge will open the Indiana campaign September 27, for the Republicans. Governor Marshall, taking the place of John W. Kern, suppressed, will trail along September 29, to pick up the raveled thread of opposition. Having heard the Republican statement of creed, the opposition will leave it to Governor Marshall to dissent in a loud voice.

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES

A Hearst Lieutenant Calls on Colonel Roosevelt.

New York, Sept. 17.—John Temple Graves, a Hearst newspaper man, saw Colonel Roosevelt by appointment, but when he was questioned as to the purpose of his visit, rumor having it that he came as an emissary to bury hatchets, with a view to a combination between Hearst's independents and the colonel, he dived into the waiting elevator.

THE PRESIDENT HAS NOT-CHANGED MIND

Will Respond to Call For Second Term If Needed.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 17.—President Taft's attitude toward a second term is substantially this:

He is not actively seeking a second term. He is devoting himself solely to the duties of his office and to the redemption of the pledges made in the national platform. He has found the duties of his office exacting if not irksome, but he has not said, as has been reported, that he was willing to step aside in 1912. On the contrary the president will respond to a call for a second term if he is satisfied that his friends and the country want him. He has not thought of deserting his friends.

This is substantially the attitude that President Taft outlined to his supporters before he left Washington, and his mind has not changed. The president declined to comment on the reports that have been published of his willingness to stand aside in 1912, but his attitude is well known to his friends.

Foss Was Renominated.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Later returns show that George Edmund Foss, head of the naval affairs committee of the house, won the nomination in the Tenth district, though the earlier returns indicated that he had lost out.

BLONDES USED TO LURE HIM ON

Fitzgerald Denounces Uncle Sam's Sirens.

HE BITTERLY DENIES STORIES

Declaring That the Secret Service Put Bewitching Women on His Trail, Former Teller of Sub-Treasury Held on Big Robbery Charge, Denies That He Fell For the Advances of Beautiful Blonde in Hobbie Skirt.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Bewitching women were used by the United States government in an attempt to lure from him secrets of the $173,000 sub-treasury robbery, according to a statement made by George W. Fitzgerald, former teller, accused of the theft.

Fitzgerald went to the office of District Attorney Sims, demanded the return of the papers taken from him at the time of his arrest, and obtained some of them. He wrathfully denied stories that he had "purchased wine for a beautiful blonde in a hobbie skirt" in downtown cafes, and declared the report grew out of the effort of secret service agents to get his secrets out of him, using women as a lure.

Positive denial of a report that a second person was secretly indicted Feb. 1 last for complicity in the robbery was made by District Attorney Sims. By his order only a few of Fitzgerald's papers were returned to him, and the indicted man threatened to go to Judge Landis and demand a court order for the remainder.

"The refusal to give me back all my papers is only another outrage in the long series of outrages the government has been guilty of against me," exclaimed Fitzgerald. "It is like their action in circulating that story that I took a beautiful blonde to a grill-room and bought her large quantities of wine, while secret service agents, disguised as waiters, spied on us and overheard our conversation. This is an absurd and malicious lie.

"The real truth is that the government trailed me with unscrupulous women in the hope that in this way they could worm supposed secrets out of me. They were beautiful women and there was no mistaking the advances they made to me. That only shows to what lengths the secret service men went in persecuting me.

"Yes, it is true, I have a very strong suspicion of the man that actually committed the robbery. He had a key to the cage in which I worked, but he is not the man who was reported indicted Feb. 17."

CHANGED HIS MIND

This Man Drew the Line When Bride-to-Be Had the Giggles.

Taunton, Mass., Sept. 17.—Because his bride-to-be snickered when he was having his marriage license filled out at the city hall here, William F. Harvey, who said he lived in New York, declined to go further toward matrimony, and left the building. The bride-to-be protested and in tears followed. She implored him to return, but he refused.

Harvey appeared at the city clerk's office with an attractive young woman and asked for a marriage license. He said he was a bartender. The girl giggled, and Harvey declared that if she snickered any more there would be no wedding. She giggled the second time. The New York man notified the clerk that he had changed his mind about a marriage license.

Knightstown, Ind., Sept. 17.—While Miss Laura Woods was driving her auto near the interurban tracks with in a block of her home she attempted to cross in front of a car and in her excitement "killed" the engine. The auto was hurled from the tracks. Miss Woods and her sister, Mrs. John Elliott, were injured and the latter's son, Clifford Elliott, aged five, was killed.

Probable Heavy Loss of Life.

Matamoros, Mex., Sept. 17.—A tropical storm which swept over the upper gulf coast region of Mexico extended for 300 miles inland. The wind did no serious damage, but the downpour of rain has produced flood conditions almost like a year ago, when more than 3,000 lives were lost and reports from the interior are anxiously awaited.

Beef Trust Witnesses Subpoenaed Early.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Two hundred and fifty subpoenas for packers and employees of the big packing concerns have been issued, returnable Nov. 1, for witnesses and to be used by the government in the prosecution of the ten millionaire heads of the big beef concerns, who were recently indicted for violation of the anti-trust law. Reports had reached the government that many of these men wanted as witnesses were about to go to Europe and elsewhere out of the country to avoid testifying, it is said, and the issuance of the subpoenas followed. It was pointed out that many men needed to testify in the last criminal beef investigation went to Europe, several of them being still there. The fact that the subpoenas were made returnable Nov. 1, may mean that the government expects the trial to begin that date.

A conference is in progress today between the government attorneys and the packers' lawyers to arrange for a date for the arraignment and pleadings within two weeks.

COMING OR GOING

This Witness Was Sure of His $2 Either Way.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 17.—When Frank Dodek was called to testify in the case of Mrs. A. Wenkowski, who was brought before Judge Farabaugh for operating a "blind tiger," he admitted to the court that he had been paid to testify. Dodek also admitted that he would have received a fee from those prosecuting Mrs. Wenkowski had they won the case. Whichever way the case was decided, Dodek was to receive $2. The case against Mrs. Wenkowski was continued to permit investigation, and Dodek was placed under arrest.

Unable to Leave Room.

Bedford, Me., Sept. 17.—Richmond H. Ingersoll, the aged ex-cashier of the York County Savings bank, who was found to have a shortage of about $340,000 in his accounts, forcing the institution to close its doors, has been arrested, the warrants having been served upon the old man in his bedroom, an affidavit having been made by Mr. Ingersoll's doctor that it would be dangerous to remove the patient from his home.

DANGER OF INJURY BY FROST IS GREAT

Much Anxiety is Expressed Over the Fact That Corn Crop May be Ruined.

RAIN HAS KEPT IT VERY GREEN

With a corn crop that will smash all records to smithereens, many farmers are already getting anxious for fear that frosts will catch the corn before it ripens. This feeling is the result of the frequent rains recently which were slow in letting up. Farmers assert that the continual rains are keeping the corn green and growing when it should be ripening and they are uneasy unless the rains continue and keep the corn green until the frost gets it.

This is no idle dream, but a very dangerous probability, and would be a calamity which would be incalculable.

Some of the corn is already beginning to ripen, but much of it is still green and steadily growing. The favorable weather which has prevailed this summer has produced corn, the like of which has never been seen in this section of the country before. Farmers declare that the ears are so large that it will require a much smaller number to fill a bushel basket. The ears are said to be as long as a man's forearm and as big as his fist. Ears of corn fifteen and sixteen inches long have been a rarity in previous years, will be common this year and will require one as long as a yard stick to carry off the prize this fall at the corn show.

outside when the word was given, secured the pole around the lower turn. Then came a battle royal between the stallion and the mare. The half was reached in 59½ seconds, better than a two-minute gait, and the pair raced home gamely in 2:01½, the fastest mile in a regular race during the week, and the fastest by a mare this year. Not even the Grand Circuit horses have put up such a pacing race as this season, and the crowd appreciated the fact. These two fast miles took considerable of the go out of all of the contestants, and while the third heat was a fine race, it was necessarily in slower time, 2:05. This completed the greatest race card ever furnished by the Indiana State Fair.

FINDS REPORT OF DEATH IS UNTRUE

Coroner's Inquest Unnecessary in the Case of Mrs. John Ursu, Victim of I. & C. Accident.

MISTAKE MADE AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. John Ursu, 513 West Washington street, injured by an Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction car on the Shelbyville division Monday night, and announced as dead by a city hospital employee Wednesday night, is now recovering from the effects of the accident in which her husband and another Roumanian were killed, says the Indianapolis Star. Coroner Blackwell, when her death was announced Thursday by an attache of the city hospital, prepared to hold an inquest, but later heard from the Deaconess hospital that the woman had been brought there by friends, and was recovering. No reason was given for the change in hospitals. An employee of the city hospital, finding the woman had gone, drew the conclusion that she had died and the body had been removed to the morgue. Judge Ross of the probate court yesterday appointed Louis Brown, a brother of Mrs. Ursu, temporary executor of the estate of John Ursu.

Only One Prisoner in County Jail and
His Release Will Come as an Xmas Gift.

HAD VERY FEW THIS SUMMER

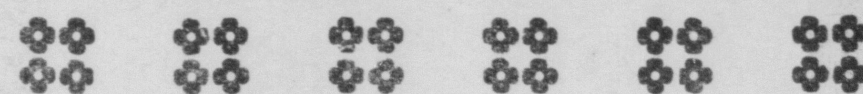

"Gee, But This is a Lonesome Place," sung to the tune of "Gee, But This is a Lonesome Town," is the song which is ringing in Sheriff Clata Bebout's ears while he is around the jail. He has only one prisoner there now and he will be with him for a time, too. Harry Brooks, who is serving a several months' term for wife desertion, will get his freedom as a delayed Christmas present. He will be allowed to walk out of the jail a free man on December 27. The jail has been comparatively free from prisoners all summer and the sheriff has had very few of them to look after. The only other prisoner who has been there any length of time, was just released last Monday. Will Gilson served a six months' term for petit larceny.
